IMPORTANT Addendum Attached: Re. Requesting Info On "Martha" Dandridge and The Dandridge Family

Greetings!... Several years ago I emailed with content in relation to my understanding of the Dandridge family in Virginia from Europe, raising inquiry regarding the 1700s-1800s. Although I'm well aware of my understanding, I, hereby, seek information pertaining as to if there is primary source material available, proven by the federal government, in regards to Martha Dandridge and her affairs. In my attempt to put the proper pieces together regarding the Dandridge family and the histories thereof, there are various matters being propagated at an alarming rate, such much so where the content is in stark contradiction to what has been passed down to me. While I am not suggesting that the information is incorrect, I would like to receive any information available to the public, proven by the federal government at the time of acquisition, regarding Martha Dandridge and the Dandridge family even in relation to England.

I must admit as I've indicated years ago, Martha Dandridge was a Negro/Black woman (as understood by my Aunt). It is my understanding that the Dandridge name is somewhat complex, appearing to derive its name prior to Europe, from India appearing to emerge in what is now considered as the continent of Africa. Components of the Dandridge name would also appear familiar in what is now considered as the "Middle East". It is fair to note that the 'Dandridge' name is a Negro/Black name. While it is not my intention to repeat the same, I will move forward into another reason as to why this email is relevant: As I explore more possible avenues of obtaining documented history regarding Martha Dandridge and the Dandridge family, it is my intention to put together a correct historical timeline, accurate mapping, and irrefutable history, in order to give clarification to the actual legacy -- not the propagandisation -- of the Dandridge family.

P.S. The reason why Martha is italicised is because I'm not necessarily convinced of the same being her actual name. I often wonder if "Martha" was a type of allegory or even title applied to her before her Dandridge name. I often wonder....

Again, if one is aware as to how I could obtain information duly noted on Martha Dandridge, please feel free to email me at KristaDandridgeBarnett@gmail.com .. Any information provided is appreciated... Thank you!..

bearly of the same age; both born in 1732, both were wealthy, refined and of the highest standing among their Virginia contemporaries. Washington loved the two children as his own. There was nothing to mar their domestic life.

But in 1778 Martha Parke Custis died, and Washington was long affected with a strange restlessness. Indeed his domestic life never again seemed so calm till after the Revolution. Martha was sometimes called the "dark lady" or "dark beauty" because of her brunette complexion, but she was both beautiful and amiable. The son, John Parke Custis, at the age of nineteen married one of the famous Calvert family at Bal-
